PROGRAMME OVERVIEW

This Level 7 Certificate in Management and Leadership aims to develop the skills required for managers to capitalise on individual and organisational strengths. Participants will learn the essential skills for successful organisational leadership and continued organisational development. It further aims to create an awareness of the impact of environmental factors on management and leadership and to help participants understand and prepare for current and future trends.

The programme has been designed to equip participants with the core knowledge, skills and competencies to develop as a manager and leader. It aims to support those in a supervisory or management role who may be experts in their field (eg manufacturing, science, engineering, ICT etc), but have no prior exposure to management and leadership teachings.

This programme aims to provide a practical learning experience to managers and those tasked with managing people. Participants will be provided with the foundation for examining and developing their own individual leadership style. Having successfully completed the Certificate in Management and Leadership participants will be able to anticipate how environmental factors impact on management practice; evaluate their own leadership style and understand the impact of this style on others; set performance objectives, integrating and co-ordinating the work of individuals and teams through appropriate collaboration in pursuit of these business objectives and, evaluate business outcomes to enhance future decision making through identifying performance and skills gaps.

We wish you well with your studies. Don't hesitate to contact us if you have any queries.
